

I oppose the relaxing of media consolidation rules. I believe the public is best served by smaller, rather than larger media companies that are in actual competition with each other.